

HALF BILLION DOLLAR BROUGHT RELIEF PROGRAM

Britain Joins France In Defaulting Debt

No Token Payment June 15, London Tells United States in Message Monday

Debt of $12,000,000,000 Becomes Real Frozen Asset

Washington, June 5—(AP)—The twelve billion dollar war debt that Europe owes the United States became a badly frozen asset today.

Now that Great Britain—for the first time in the proud history of that empire—has decided to default, other countries are believed likely to follow suit.

Only little Finland has announced it will pay its full installment of $166,538 on the line June 15. Except for talk of a possibility that one other debtor might pay something, the prospects for much cash on $474,000,000 due or overdue in mid-June was considered extremely remote.

The British refusal to pay—announced in a note delivered to the State Department last night—heralded a virtually complete collapse in a situation that has filled the international scene with bitter recriminations for years.

Under the circumstances, the note said in effect, it is to the advantage of all to have a showdown on the whole question immediately.

The British note said, in effect, that "carrying on" was impossible because:

1. The British people can't go on making the financial sacrifice they have made since the war.
2. It is economically impossible to make transfers on such a tremendous scale; any attempt to do so would have disastrous effect on world trade and prices.
3. The British funding agreement (under which they still owe more than they did at first despite payment of nearly half of the original amount), is unjust.
4. The United States has refused to accept payment in goods and services.

The note said Britain faced the alternatives of paying in full, or deferring payments. Great Britain is collecting nothing from its debtors, the note declared, and payments to America would necessitate a demand on those creditors.

FINANCING OF NAZI PROGRAM TO BE PROBED

Congressional Committee Start Important Investigation

Washington, June 5—(AP)—A congressional inquiry was launched today to find out whether cash from Germany financed Nazi propaganda in America.

Representative McCormack (D. Mass.), chairman of a House committee, subpoenaed 25 witnesses for the opening hearing in a study of "subversive propaganda." Their identity has been kept secret.

It was learned that committee members expected witnesses to tell a number of stories. One is that a New York concern gets $6,000 a month from a Hitler government official for "services" and pays $1,000 cash each month—to an American Nazi adherent—for advice.

Another witness, it was said, will testify that a clergyman was handed $350 by a Nazi agent shortly after he wrote a pamphlet criticizing the Jews.

A similar investigation already has been made of the activities of the "silver shirts" and an American branch of the German "steel helmets." Committee members said more will be heard of these organizations.

French Hail British Decision Joyfully as Confirmation

London, June 5—(AP)—Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told the House of Commons today that Great Britain which announced yesterday she would pay nothing on her forthcoming debt installment—would have paid at least a "token" June 15 but for the fact that President Roosevelt could not guarantee that Great Britain would not be classed as a defaulter.

His statement was heard by an eager audience which jammed the Chamber. The treasury bench was crowded with ministers and so were the seats allotted to foreign ambassadors and distinguished strangers.

The treasury head said that the British debts note, made public last night in Washington, had been intended to be published simultaneously here and in Washington today.

"Owing to a misunderstanding for which the American government was in no way responsible," said Chamberlain, "the terms of our note which was delivered at 8 P. M. by our time 1 P. M. CST," were issued in Washington a few hours later in the evening."

France, now that she has Great Britain for a companion as a debt defaulter, is expected to press new efforts to liquidate her huge war debt to the United States.

A basis of ten cents on the dollar appeared today to be a likely proposal for settlement of the $3,960,772,238 fortune France owes America.

No Payment Likely

Any likelihood the French would pay something of the $59,000,000 due June 15 appeared remote following publication of the British note to Washington announcing that nation would default.

Observers here believed it likely that the government would send a message to Washington similar to the British one.

Before adopting a definite policy, France had been waiting for London to act. Britain's stand would make it impossible, French officials said, to propose a token payment because of political reasons.

Even if a payment should be made, spokesmen pointed out, the country still would be regarded as a defaulter.

School Boy, Hurt in Fight, Refuses to "Snitch"; Is Dead

New York, June 5—(AP)—"I ain't no snitch," murmured thirteen-year-old Meyer Celler, and died.

He had come home from school yesterday and said to his mother:

"A big boy hit me on the head. We was fighting. I feel awful sick."

She asked him who the big boy was. He answered:

"Aw, mom, I can't tell you; honest I can't. I ain't no snitch."

He died like that.

Evidence Given That German Ambassador Financed Booklet of German Propaganda in U. S.

Washington, June 5—(AP)—Evidence to the effect that Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador, was the financial backer of a German propaganda pamphlet was given today to the special House committee investigating propaganda activities in the United States.

In the committee's first open hearing, the Rev. Francis Gross, retired Hungarian Catholic minister of Perth Amboy, N. J., was summoned to discuss a pamphlet he had written entitled "Justice to Hungary, Germany, Austria."

He identified a letter he had written to the man who printed the pamphlet referring to "correspondence in my possession by which the proof is established that in publishing my books, Ambassador Dr. Luther was the sponsor, financial backer and promoter."

That letter added:

"Permit me to state if these documents would be used in further discussion, repercussions and sensations in the American and world press might even cause the recall of Dr. Luther and the friendly relationship between our country and Germany might become clouded for a long while."

DOUBLE SLAYER DREADS FATHER AND QUESTIONS Youth Who Killed Mother and Brother Can Not Give Reason

Los Angeles, June 5—(AP)—A meeting between Lucius F. Payne, St. Louis utilities magnate, and his 21-year-old son who has confessed killing his mother and brother, was awaited by police today in the hope it might disclose the reason for the brutal axe-slayings.

Louis Payne's voice trembled as he spoke of seeing his father, who was enroute by airplane.

"He'll ask me why I did it, and I can't offer an explanation."

Although he has given a 5,000 word statement on the slayings of last Wednesday morning to Captain of Detectives Hubert J. Wallis, the young man's clearest explanations of why he killed his mother and brother were: "I just had an impulse" and "because of little things."

Police plan to take father and son to the luxurious residence where Mrs. Carrie L. Payne, 45, and her 14-year-old son, Robert, were found in their bedrooms with their heads hacked by a hand axe.

Investigators hoped either the shock of meeting his father or returning to the scene of the slaying would improve Louis' memory.

Meanwhile they continued their protracted questioning of the boy. Out to many questions his answers continued to be "I don't know" or "I can't seem to remember."

Louis became so exhausted from the almost incessant grilling yesterday that he fell asleep as soon as he was locked in his cell.

Dr. James T. Fisher, an alienist and the Paynes next-door neighbor, who discovered the tragedy Sunday, examined the youth and described him as mentally unstable.

The possibility a mysterious woman might have been indirectly involved was discarded by the police. They said investigation had failed to substantiate a report a woman, posing as Mrs. Payne, had claimed Robert's trumpet from his school band last Friday saying he had been accidentally shot in the foot and would be unable to attend school.

FRANCE GETS SUPPORT

Paris, June 5—(AP)—Paris newspapers hailed Great Britain's decision to suspend war debt payments to the United States today as proof that France was right all along in defaulting and that henceforth a united Europe will oppose America on the question.

"France was right, war debts are dead," said headlines in the papers.

France, now that she has Great Britain for a companion as a debt defaulter, is expected to press new efforts to liquidate her huge war debt to the United States.

A basis of ten cents on the dollar appeared today to be a likely proposal for settlement of the $3,960,772,238 fortune France owes America.

KIDNAPED GIRL TO GO ON STAGE; OR IN MOVIES

June Robles' Father Considers Plan to Spur Gang Hunt

Long Beach, Calif., June 5—(AP)—To spur the hunt for the kidnappers who imprisoned her 19 days in a desert cell near her Tucson, Ariz., home, six-year-old June Robles will become a vaudeville trouper of a movie actress for a few weeks.

Fernando Robles, her father, announced he was considering an offer made by a motion picture concern and another by a vaudeville promoter, calling for little June's appearance for four weeks at $1,000 per week.

"I plan to accept this or the movie offer," Robles said, "and take $1,500 of the proceeds and set it aside as a reward for the capture of kidnappers."

Should June accept the vaudeville contract, she probably would reenact the kidnapping and subsequent imprisonment, he said.

1935 COLOR SCHEME

Joliet, Ill., June 5—(AP)—License plates on Illinois automobiles next year will be battleship gray and royal blue, Secretary of State Edward Hughes announced today.

At the same time he said it was expected that the greater share of the 1935 plates would be manufactured at the Stateville prison shops at a cost of approximately seven and one-half cents a set.

LARGE GARAGE OF EXPRESS CO. BOMBED TWICE

Chicago Had Similar Bombing Just the Night Before

Chicago, June 5—(AP)—Two bombs exploded late last night at a block long garage of the Railway Express Agency, resulting in slight injuries to a woman and two men, all cut by flying glass.

A night watchman, approaching the entrance to the building, was shoved aside by a man believed to be one of the bombers who shouted: "Do you want to get killed?" The watchman fled, as did the bombers.

Police questioned employees of the company and said they learned there had been trouble there recently over efforts to get the drivers to join a union.

This was the second consecutive night that big garages have been bombed. About the same time on Sunday night, two bombs were tossed into a big garage housing buses, belonging to the Chicago Motor Coach Company. As a result, all five garages owned by the company were under police guard today.

LEE CO. MEDICS WILL ENTERTAIN FRIDAY EVENING

Expect Many Physicians at Annual Meeting at State Hospital

The Lee County Medical Society has sent out over a thousand invitations to doctors in northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and eastern Iowa for the big annual medical meeting which is to be held at the Dixon state hospital on Friday evening, June 8. The meeting is to be held in the large recreation building which is an ideal place for a meeting of this kind. The programs arranged by the Lee County Medical Society each year are exceptionally interesting and instructive. The speakers are always selected from the most noted men in this part of the United States. Last year the attendance was 425 and this year preparations are being made to accommodate even a larger number.

The medical society furnishes all the food, as well as the dishes upon which it is served. The tables will be beautifully decorated and the color scheme this year will be canary yellow, apple green and white. Jack Waters, chef at the state hospital, has planned and will supervise the preparation and the serving of this large banquet. This annual banquet and meeting receive a great deal of favorable comment in the medical magazines and at meetings and clinics even as far away as Rochester, Minnesota.

Program Features

This year the program will include:

An operative clinic to be held in the operating room of the hospital building at the state hospital. (Continued on Page 9.)

Little Theater, Monmouth Campus Guttled by Flames

Monmouth, Ill., June 5—(AP)—Fire of unknown origin early today badly damaged the Monmouth College Little Theater, together with much stage property, including costumes that were to be worn in the senior class play tonight.

Alumni and parents of students, who had come to the campus for commencement exercises, witnessed the fire. The building was a frame structure erected in 1902 as a temporary gymnasium but for many years it had been occupied by the Crimson Masque, college dramatic society. Only the shell still stands.

The loss is partly covered by insurance.

G. O. P. LEADERS RECESS BEFORE TAKING A VOTE

National Committeemen Seek Compromise on Chairmanship

Chicago, June 5—(AP)—Without having reached the matter of electing a new party chairman, the Republican National Committee adjourned shortly after noon today and voted to resume in a closed session.

The balloting for a new party pilot was to be started late in an afternoon session, which will be opened by the retiring address of Chairman Everett Sanders of Indiana, President Hoover's campaign manager. He is expected to make the first statement of the party's fall platform.

During the luncheon recess, diplomats of the party were striving to compose a widening split between adherents of former President Herbert Hoover and advocates of a new party regime.

Approval of the appointment of George F. Getz of Chicago as national treasurer by the executive committee was asked of the committee. It was seconded by Frank L. Smith of Illinois, but Mrs. Paul Fitzsimons of Rhode Island, asked that the approval of Getz be held up until after the reading of the treasurer's report. When the amendment was put to a vote, however, the committee rejected the amendment emphatically and followed with a noisy approval of Getz's appointment.

Charges that the Democratic administration has increased government expenses and created new and useless bureaus, in direct reversal of platform pledges, were made in resolutions adopted by the Republican state committeemen at a meeting here yesterday.

Drew "Deadly Parallel"

A so-called "deadly parallel," listing ten promises of the Democratic party platform of 1932 and a comparison of what has been done as seen by the Republicans, was included.

Some of the comparisons:

"Promise: Immediate and drastic reduction of government expenses. Performance: Has increased expenses of government to the highest point in history of our country."

"Promise: Abolition of useless government commissions and consolidation of bureaus. Performance: Has created many new useless, and burdensome commissions and a constantly increasing number of agencies vested with oppressive bureaucratic authority."

"Promise: To balance the budget. Performance: Has boosted the public debt to the highest on record."

"Promise: Sound and stable currency and the maintenance of the gold standard. Performance: Reduction of the gold content of the dollar to less than 60 cents."

Other promises which the Republicans charge were not kept were: a competitive tariff, strict enforcement of the anti-trust laws; removal of the government from all fields of private enterprise; protection of investors in securities; justice to war veterans; and the return of the saloon.

Council Chamber Hot So City Dads Hustle Their Work

The sultry condition of the city hall last evening resulted in only a very brief session of the city council. The members of the city commission debated the changing of the city pay day from the present system to the first and fifteenth of each month and an ordinance had been prepared to be presented changing the plan. The ordinance voted 3 to 2 to maintain the present pay days. Commissioner Loftis and Mayor Dixon opposed the present plan.

The annual appropriation ordinance was passed by the council last evening. Commissioner George Campbell casting an opposing vote. Permits to erect electric signs were granted Clarence Gibson, 611 Depot avenue, and Frank Deutch, 314 First street.

The Cardinal asserted that the Government's Plans for Aiding Farmers in Arid Sections Presented Today

Rain Comes to Parched Lands Too Late to Save Grains

Chicago, June 5—(AP)—Rain has come to parched farms of the west, but in many places too late to pour life back into burned grain fields.

Water was still precious in spite of heavy rains in seven states last night. Additional rains were forecast generally for the ravager area, lending hope that the peak of six weeks drought damage has been reached.

Although rain fell in Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Nebraska and Indiana, a survey showed today that much of the early small grain was beyond redemption and the need for immediate relief acute.

South Dakota farmers, their small crops heavily damaged, watched for rains to save forage crops.

Half Water Supply

Idaho estimated its water supply only 56 per cent of normal. Double the $250,000 drought relief fund granted the state was declared necessary to save imperiled districts.

In Utah the water supply was from 10 to 40 per cent normal. Its $600,000 drought relief program was estimated to make up only from 15 to 20 per cent of the deficiency. A plan was considered of moving farmers out of the worst drought areas.

The Wisconsin state department of Agriculture reported livestock feed virtually exhausted, other states being looked to for the purchase of supplies. The grasshopper menace in northern counties was as great as the lack of moisture.

The Iowa department of agriculture cited chinch bugs as the most serious threat to their crops. Heavy rains within 10 days would save the corn crop.

Feed Situation Acute

In Nebraska the feed situation was the most serious, assuring some forced reduction of cattle supplies.

Wheat was virtually a total failure in western Kansas, but the crisis was not reached in the corn crop. Stockmen hauled water.

Abnormal rains in Wyoming were held by Arnold King, department of agricultural statistician, as the only hope for cattle and crops. A foodstuffs carryover removed the danger of famine.

Farmers in New Mexico were receiving surplus commodity feed and food for cattle and inhabitants. The water situation generally was not acute.

Govt. Buys Cattle

Government purchases of cattle relieved the condition on badly burnt ranges in eastern Montana, and regular relief generally was underway.

In Ohio the condition was described as the worst in 20 years, with corn, wheat and oats more than 50 per cent retarded.

Heavy rains were the hope of the Illinois corn crop, as a state survey was underway to place Illinois farmers under the Federal work relief program. Damage to crops and pastures was general in Indiana.

The situation was described as near the danger line in Michigan, Oregon, California, Arizona, with feed danger the most serious. Texas was described as in "pretty good shape."

League Leaders to Be Seen in Action Here this Evening

Dixon soft ball fans will be given a double treat this evening when they gather at the Airport field to witness the weekly at-home game of the Beier Bakers team of the Rock River Valley League. In addition to seeing the league leading Rock Falls team in action on the local field for the first time this season, a surprise attraction has been arranged with no extra charge to the patrons.

Preceding the game, a troupe of trick and fancy bicycle riders will perform beneath the flood lights on the infield. At the conclusion of their performance, the game will be called. Adolph Wang will doubtless start the whirling for the Bakers.

Robinson Assured of Renomination by Indiana G. O. P.

Indianapolis, June 5—(AP)—Senator Arthur R. Robinson was assured of renomination today at the Republican state convention today when it was announced no one would oppose him.

Failure of several prospective candidates to enter the race against Robinson weakened the opposition which arose after the Senator's recent attempt to oust the present heads of the state committee.

DEATH ON WHEELS

Grim tragedies of the race-track—breath-taking and death-dealing—are recorded in these sensational photographs taken in this country and abroad. A fraction of a second after the picture above was made, George Herzog, participant in a race at Hoboken, N. J., was fatally injured when his skidding car overturned, fell upon and crushed him. Another skid victim was Spaggiari, contestant in Rome's International motorcycle contest, who was caught by the cameraman as he was shot from the saddle of his cycle—and killed.

Americans Drinking As Much Hard Stuff As Before 18th Law

Washington, June 5—(AP)—Half a year of repeal has found the drinkers of America putting away just about as much legal hard stuff as before prohibition.

But the taste for legal beer and ale is less than half the old-time average of 1,800,000,000 to 2,000,000,000 gallons a year.

Tax figures indicated the statistics do not reckon the bootleg supply which officials have declared to be still enormous.

Repeat, six months old today, is paying the federal government taxes of about $25,000,000 monthly, or four to five million more than lower rates returned before prohibition.

Three Convicts in Futile Attempt to Flee Tenn. Prison

Nashville, Tenn., June 5—(AP)—Three long-term prisoners surrendered to prison authorities today after two of them had disarmed a guard and with the third convict, barricaded themselves in the east wing of the state penitentiary. They defied efforts to take them for more than seven hours.

Prison attaches said the men were Carl Pentecost, Lonnie Taylor and J. R. Raines. Taylor participated in a prison break here last year, and was given a long term sentence in connection with the slaying of a prison trustee.

Heart Attack is Fatal to Woman Wading in River

Wood River, Ill., June 5—(AP)—Authorities today blamed shock or heart attack for the death of Mrs. Mary Williamson, Wood River, who died when she stepped into deep water in the Mississippi river last night.

The woman, with a party of friends, was wading in the river when she stepped off a sandbar and into the deep water. She fought off rescuers for several minutes and when they finally reached shore with her she was dead.

Marshmallow Plant

The marshmallow is a tall, erect plant, cousin to the hollyhock, native to both Europe and Asia, and grows most freely in marshes near the sea. A decoction of the roots and other parts gives a tasteless, colorless gum used in the manufacture of mullage and medicinally as a demulcent for children. Candy "marshmallows," originally made from it, are of sugar, corn sirup and gelatin.

Figures Tell Tragic Story of Drouth

A clear picture of the extent and severity of the drouth over the middle west may be had by comparing the figures on this map of the stricken region. These figures give, in light face type, the total normal rainfall, averaged over the last 50 years, for the first five months from January to June, as compared with the total rainfall over the same period this year, as shown in black face type. Although the figures cover only the places designated, they represent fairly closely the condition of the surrounding country. In no spot, you will observe, has this year's rainfall approached the normal, while in some places, as at Bismarck, N. D., this year's precipitation has gone as low as 15 per cent of normal.

SCIENCE WONDER STORIES

Preventing Rust with Cadmium

For years, science has been seeking a better and more economical way to combat the rusting of iron and steel, a protective substance that would also improve the appearance of the articles treated.

There has now come into quite general use cadmium, a metallic plating material derived from zinc.

"Cadmulate," a process and product for cadmium plating has proved so successful that it has been approved by the Underwriters Laboratories and recognized by United States Army and Navy inspectors.

It was developed in the Cleveland, Ohio, research laboratory of the Grasselli Chemical Company.

Cadmium is a curiously interesting chemical element. It not only has the property of mechanical protection, which it shares with many other metals, lacquers, and paints, but it also, along with zinc, protects electrochemically. This is because cadmium has a selective action, the corrosive agents (carbon dioxide, moisture and oxygen in the air) combining with the cadmium to some extent, instead of with the iron and steel.

THE WHITE AND BLUE

(Prin. Ernest E. Cole, Agassiz School, Chicago)
HERE'S no other land like my land,
Beneath the shining sun;
There's no other flag like my flag.

In all the world—not one;
One land, one tongue, and one people,
To one flag loyal, true—
No red shall wave o'er my fair land
Without the white and blue.

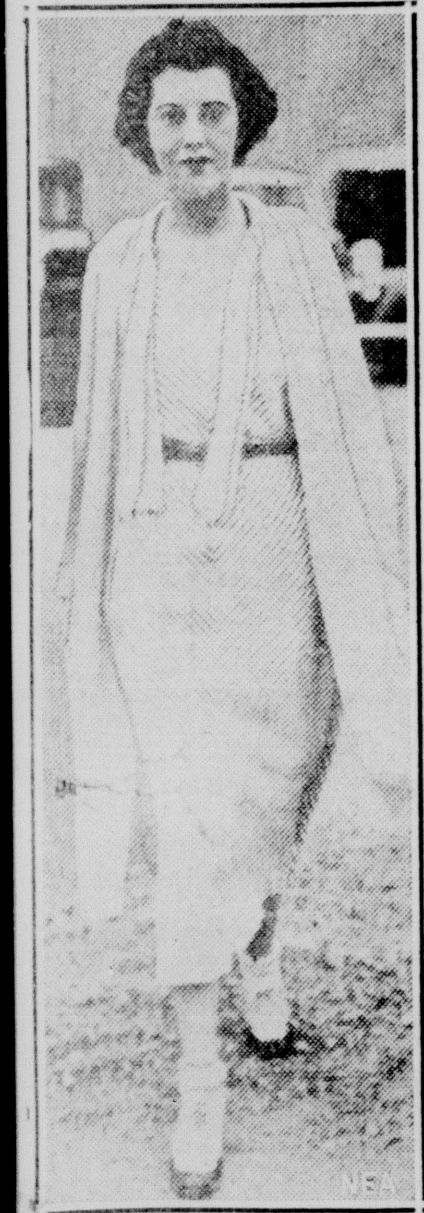

There's grandeur in my land's mountains,
Comfort in her valleys;
There's wealth in her broad prairies,
There's freedom in her gales.
In my land all men are equal,
Her flag proclaims it, too—
No red shall wave o'er my fair land
Without the white and blue.

There's majesty in Old Glory,
Hope in each stripe and star;
It heralds freedom, liberty,
Unsubdued and triumphant,
To nations, near and far;
Glorified, she floats anew—
No red shall wave o'er my fair land
Without the white and blue.

Mix, chill ingredients. Serve in bowl lined with lettuce. Cover with lettuce.

Nut Bread
(Using Buttermilk)
2 cups graham flour
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon soda
1 cup sugar

PICNIC SUGGESTIONS
Wrap several sandwiches together in waxed paper. Cover with damp cloth and store in ice box until picnic time. Sandwiches really improve in flavor if this is done.

Use wide-mouthed screw top jars to hold salads and relishes for picnics so the contents can be removed easily.

Drop cakes or cookies carry better than layer cakes.

SHELL STITCH CHAIR SET

AN oval chair set offers an interesting variation from the square and oblong one. If it is crocheted in a fine mercerized crochet cotton it will give a lacy effect that is lovely over the rich color of the upholstery of the chair. Chair backs are meant to convey an air of coolness and allay the tired head when it rests against an otherwise hot and scratchy surface. A mesh design in crochet cotton is the coolest and most practical thing possible for this purpose, and it will wash like a dream.

Now For So Long

By Helen Welshimer
NOW for so long your step has matched my own
As we have climbed serenely up the hill.
So close you were new darkness held no fear...
(I had forgotten nights could be so still!)
Your hand upon my arm had been a guide
That found a path for me, fair built, among The bramble trees... you see, dear, I have walked
So many days where your tall lantern swung.

It is not that I'd call you back tonight
To take the road that bruises as it climbs.
Strange though it is to walk without you now,
I'm glad you found your roof, your rest betimes.
Nor is it that I am not brave, dear heart,
But for so long your step has matched my own,
That I may stumble on the highway now
Until I learn, once more, to walk alone!

BEYOND PUBLIC SERVICE.
Once again—and in New York, as usual—we have one of those cases in which a public servant is found to have enjoyed an income far greater than the one he has drawn from the public treasury.
This time it is a city court justice. During 44 months this ornament to the bench drew a salary of $40,035; in the same period he managed to put $166,660 in the bank.
As a result the New York Bar Association has brought proceedings to have him removed from office.
It is conceivable, of course, that a man in such a position might be entirely innocent. He might have inherited money from a rich uncle; he might have made some very lucky investments; he might, heaven knows, have held a winning ticket in the Irish sweepstakes.
But as a general thing, a public servant whose deposits so greatly exceed his visible income belongs back in private life, just as quickly as he can be put there.

IN TERMS OF THE PAST, TODAY IS A FAILURE.
One of the strangest things about modern America is the fondness everybody seems to have developed for looking back at the past.
You get samples of this everywhere. It ranges all the way from the collection of antiques to the desire to look at photographs of the pre-Spanish War era.
In one city there was held recently a grand reunion of people who had been public schoolmates half a century ago. Thousands of them turned out for an elaborate picnic and sat about talking over old times. And they seemed to be just about unanimous in the belief that "people had more fun" in the old days.
They talked about sleigh rides in the winters, about oyster stew suppers at farm homes, about children who bummed free rides on horse cars, about spelling bees and Sunday School picnics and the other diversions of the youth of 50 years ago.
They felt rather sorry for their children and grandchildren, who have to grow up in the modern world and miss all those little pleasures that used to be.
Now this attitude, to repeat, is an extremely common one nowadays; and it testifies, not so much to an idyllic quality in American life in the past as to a deep and fundamental dissatisfaction with the American life of today.
We wouldn't keep looking back over our shoulders so much if we found the life about us all that it ought to be.
It is the comparison that makes the past look so attractive.
Somehow the present hasn't lived up to our expectations; and this is not solely the fault of the depression, because we had very bad depressions in those good old days.
To understand it, you have to look at the whole development of American life in this century; the nation's emergence as a world power, the spectacular growth of great cities and great industries, the arrival of the automobile age, and the World War.
All these things held out great promise; and in no case has the reality been quite as nice as what we had expected. Life has grown more eventful, perhaps, but hardly richer.
Somehow we must readjust our society so that greater emphasis will be put on purely human values. We shall be a lot happier when we no longer feel the urge to look wistfully back at the day before yesterday.

THE SAME ENDING.
No more humanly revealing story has come over the cables in many months than the one telling how Bertrand Russell, English mathematician and philosopher, has been sued for divorce, on the ground of infidelity, by Dora Russell.
Here were the people who, perhaps more than anyone else, impressed on the modern generation the necessity for a sophisticated and "enlightened" attitude toward love and marriage. They made speeches and wrote magazine articles about it; Mrs. Russell declared bravely, "I would not insist upon absolute faithfulness after marriage."
Well, it was all clear-sighted and intelligent, no doubt; but the marriage seems to be ending precisely as thousands of others have ended, for all these fine words.
And the whole business is an enlightening commentary on the way in which human emotions refuse to be found to the slogans of modern sophistication.
The old idea that every American worth his salt can make his pile, when pushed to its logical extreme, leads to vandalism, racketeering, and the type of business piracy that is now being hissed off the American stage—Dr. William E. Wickenden, president, Case school of Applied Science.

it should not be respectable unless it is well employed.—

ity of right was denied her in practice.—Dr. Albert Schnee

THE TINY TIMES
Poor Duncy was a frightened lad
He loudly shouted, "I will be glad when I am off this teeter-totter. I have had enough."
"I thought that this would be real fun, but look what Margery has done. She nearly bounced me off, and I think she is far too rough."
"Oh, you are a little 'fraidy cat to let yourself get scared like that," said Doty. "See! I told you that you'd likely take a flop."
"The reason that you're safe and sound, instead of sprawled upon the ground, is 'cause friend Margery is kind and knew just when to stop."
"Yes, lad, I really could have tossed you 'way up high, till you were lost," said Margery, "but you looked scared. You had best hop to the ground."
"I'll let the other Tines try their luck at bouncing toward the sky. Then I must bid you all goodbye, because I will be homeward bound."
In just a little while the bunch hiked down the road. "I have a hunch that we should visit yonder cottage," little Doty cried.
"A thin man lives there with his mate. To visit them would be just great. Of course, though, if they are not friendly, we can run and hide."
They rapped upon the door and then were very thrilled and tickled when a skinny man appeared and said, "I am Jack Spratt! Come right in."
"I eat no fat; my wife no lean.
We always lick the platter clean.
You're just in time to see us. In a moment, we'll begin."
The wife, however, said, "Now, wait, I really think it would be great to let these little youngsters have what we were going to eat."
"They will lick the platter clean, instead," "Oh, my you are kind," one Tiny said. "Your platter is full of sandwiches and they will be a treat."

BOWEL DISORDERS: 1
The mechanism and function of the large intestine, that is, of the bowel, are involved. This length of gut makes a devious excursion.
Starting from the right side, in the region of the groin, it runs upward and then across the abdomen and downward again on the left side, to curve around the wall of the pelvis and end in the anus.
The functions of the bowel are numerous, but primarily it is a storage house for accumulation of the waste material which remains after the ingested food has passed through the twenty-odd feet of small intestine. The bowel absorbates water from the materials which it receives, and forms and shapes this waste preparatory to expulsion.
The large intestine is under the control of a variety of nerve mechanisms, and it is perhaps because of this complex nervous control that the bowel is subject to so many varieties of functional disorders.
These functional disorders are variously named. Colon atony or undue relaxation of the muscula-ture of the colon, colon spasm, mucousmembranous colitis, atonic constipation—these are a few of the names that are given to the various forms of imbalances of the bowel.
The causes of colon disturbances or bowel disorders are numerous, and among them, psychic and emotional factors are of importance. It is interesting to note that the so-called intestinal neu-roses diminish in frequency the lower down the social scale one goes.
In other words, it is the educated, cultured, nervous individual with an exaggerated sense of responsibility and large obligations who appears to be most liable to bowel disturbances.

Cyclonic Wind in Ashton Township Caused Big Loss

A cyclone storm, first seen passing over Sterling, finally came to earth on the Henry Salzman farm, southeast of Ashton after midnight Saturday morning and caused damage to the extent of about $3,000, fully insured. The storm demolished a large barn, blew the windows out of the house, wrecked the poultry house, moved the machine shed eight feet from its foundation, twisted the cattle shed ten feet out of line and damaged the corn cribs. No livestock was injured. A corn crib on the J. W.
McCullough farm near the Salzman place was upset and damaged, also.

Sound Sound is usually defined as the sensation caused by stimulation of the auditory nerves and, according to this definition, there would be no sound unless there was an ear present to receive the sound vibrations.
However, in physics sound is defined as the energy which occasions the sensation of hearing. Then, in a physical sense, sound would be present wherever there were sound waves regardless of whether it was actually heard or not.

The junior-senior banquet and prom of the community high school given in St. Mary's auditorium Tuesday evening, in Sterling, was an unusually bright and beautiful educational-social occasion which brought out those valuable features of training so carefully worked out under Catholic auspices. Exceedingly good taste was shown in all phases of the year's class preparations for the evening of social enjoyment.

A marvel of beauty was unfolded to the eyes of guests of the students as they entered the auditorium. Decorations were most pleasing. The banquet tables were arranged to form the rim of an octagon, with a long speaker's table. Ceiling and walls were adorned with graceful strands of blue and silver crepe paper, with a large silver star forming a massive centerpiece, while the outground was in blue. The chandeliers were hidden with paper strands of the same type, while a large central chandelier of blue lights shed a softening glow. There were sections of dainty white fence, in the pallings of which were draped the green leaved branches of forest trees.

An imitation of an old dug well with curb and windlass, rope and bucket occupied the center of the floor within the octagon enclosure.

remindful of school days in olden times when pupils rushed, at recess time to quench their thirst at the well. Tables were ornamental with blue candles to which silver bows of ribbon were tied near the bases. Nut cups and favors were in blue and silver while white place cards had names embossed in silver.

At Speaker's table which ranged across the hall at the head of the octagon were Mr. A. J. Burns, and Rev. J. T. Smith of St. Mary's with about 25 clergy from various towns in northwestern Illinois. A delicious banquet meal was served by the young women's sodality in a delightful manner. The classes and their guests enjoyed a full meal of good things edible.

John Connelly qualified well as the toastmaster with a graceful introductory address, and the greeting of the juniors was pleasantly made by Edna Mills, while the response for the seniors was by Alvin Clavin, Jr. Mary McGinn spoke charmingly of the seniors. Wayne Wahl gave encouraging stimulus to the prospective athletes for next year. Grateful recognition to the Sisters of Loreto was made in an address by Rita Henkel, a student of the community high from Harmon, and which reflected that refined and spiritual grasp the student body has of the purpose of Catholic education, environment and religious privilege.

The address for the school board was by P. J. McAndrews, and Rev. T. L. Walsh, pastor of St. Patrick's parish in Dixon, gave the address of the evening. Rev. Emmett Murphy, pastor of St. Edward's church in Rockford, responded to a call for a talk and paid high tribute to St. Mary's parish and all other parishes having part in affording Catholic education in the community high and St. Mary's schools. He said that there is a vast difference in the pupils who did not have the advantages of Catholic education and social environment. In St. Mary's, he said, the facilities afforded for raising up generations of the highest type of young people should be appreciated by everyone.

At the conclusion of the banquet the annual prom took place in their party clothes. Girls were attired in the latest and most charming of girlish frocks while the youths wore white trousers, dark coats and dancing pumps. Music was discoursed by a good orchestra. Quite a few parents and invited relatives enjoyed the young people's festivities in seeing them dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hersh motored out from Sterling Thursday evening to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Long.

Sacred Water of India

Amritsar, India, owes its foundation to the sanctity which attaches to the site. According to Hindu mythology, it was there that Rama's army was restored to life after its destruction by his sons. In Guru Ram Das' days a cripple bathed, after seeing a crow change from a jet black hue to the whiteness of a swan merely by dipping its wings in the magic waters, and was transformed into a vigorous man.

Living Our Everyday Lives

THE BOOMERANG

(By Dr. Joseph Fori Newton.)

Once upon a time, in a Wild West show, a group of boys watched a boomerang. A huge stockily-built, powerful man, he ran a little way and threw it with all his might. The strange weapon went up and out a long distance, then turned of its own accord and fell near where it started. Afterward he let us look at the boomerang, but we could not make out why it acted so.

Of course, it was due in part to the way it was shaped, and in another part to the way in which it was thrown. Anyway, if he missed his aim he did not lose his weapon; it always returned to him.

Life is in many ways like a boomerang. The thoughts we throw out at others fly back and hit us. The deeds we do return to bless or blight us. Our life describes a circle and returns upon us.

"Round about, round about," said the Borg in Peer Gynt. But long before Ibsen wrote his play the Bible told the story of Jacob, who learned that the faster one moves away from the past the swifter it comes back.

As a youth Jacob robbed his brother Esau and ran away to a far place. But the years brought him back to face not only his brother, but his own soul. In the end we must encounter our own failure.

But a boomerang can be very beautiful, too. If Jacob dreamed of a ladder of angels at Bethel, he returned to face his folly he met those shining ones, not in a dim dream, but in the open road by day light.

What is that gray-haired man doing in his back garden? Ostensibly he is erecting a shed for his garden tools so as to keep the place tidy. But actually he is a little boy again making a rabbit-trap.

Why did Ibsen leave sunny Italy and go back to Norway to die? A profound homing instinct drew him back to the early scene—as if his dreaming soul longed to leave the earth near where it was born.

Life is not an arrow; it is a boomerang. Man doubles upon his tracks. An infant he is born, he is an infant again at the end, falling asleep in the arms of God—dust to dust, and spirit to spirit.

The Opossum

The opossum is omnivorous, therefore its diet consists of flesh, vegetation and insect life. In fact, it will eat anything. It is one of the few members of the marsupial family found in America, and like the kangaroo carries its young in an abdominal pouch. It is apparently a dull-witted, slow-moving creature with little means of defense except its exceptional ability to pretend death. Its tail is as handy as its claws in climbing trees, and it is equally at home on the ground or on the limb of a tree. They live in burrows, principally under the heavy root system of trees.

The first six players in the day's play were: Durkes, 157; Lazier, 163; Martin, 167; Abbott,

CONFINE CUT SHOTS TO SHORTER CLUBS

When distance to the green isn't long, and you're playing a shot from a clean lie in a bunker, the cut shot should be played. Here is how it is made:

With an open stance, pull the hands and arms in close to the body as the ball is hit, imparting slice or side spin to it. Allowance to the left of the pit must be made to correct the turn of the ball from left to right.

Cut shots should be confined to the shorter clubs—nothing longer than a mashie-niblick—and used with the longer clubs only when a slice is desired for proper placement.

Carnera Pronounced Favorite to Defeat Max Baer June 14th.

New York, June 5—(AP)—The bookmakers list Primo Carnera a pronounced favorite to whip Max Baer June 14 and retain his world's heavyweight championship.

Jack Doyle, prominent betting commissioner, quotes 3 to 5 against Carnera and 7 to 5 against Baer with plenty of Carnera money.

The short price on the champion reflects the fine impression the big Italian has made in training at Pompton Lakes and the feeling among the experts that Baer is far from first-rate condition.

SCARBORO TAKES LEAGUE LEAD IN PITCHERS' FIGHT

Herrmann Gets Better of 2 to 1 Battle With Fieck

(Telegraph Special Service)

Scarboro—Scarboro went into a tie for first place Sunday in the eastern division of the Illinois State league by defeating Mendota 2 to 1 on the local diamond. Herrmann, pitching for Scarboro, allowed but one fluke single and struck out six. Lefty Fieck of Mendota set 16 of the Scarboro boys down swinging and allowed but three hits. The first run of the game was scored in the first inning when Morts singled, went to second while Walter struck out and continued to third on an overthrow by the catcher. He scored a minute later on Grove's grounder that the first baseman juggled, which made both runners safe. The winning run was scored in the sixth after two were out. Walters walked, stole second and continued to third on the overthrow. He came in with the winning run when Grove singled between right and center field. Mendota scored their solitary count on an error, a fielders choice and their only hit of the afternoon.

Fieck hails from LaSalle and is an 18 year old southpaw who has all of the earmarks of a comer. It is rumored that he has been given a trial with the Cubs and that he is the property of the Chicago National League club. Next Sunday Scarboro will attempt to beat Compton out of a tie for first place, the game to be played on the Compton field. The score of Sunday's game was as follows:

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

CEGAR RUST CAN EXIST ONLY AS LONG AS IT IS ABLE TO SPEND EVERY OTHER YEAR ON AN APPLE TREE!

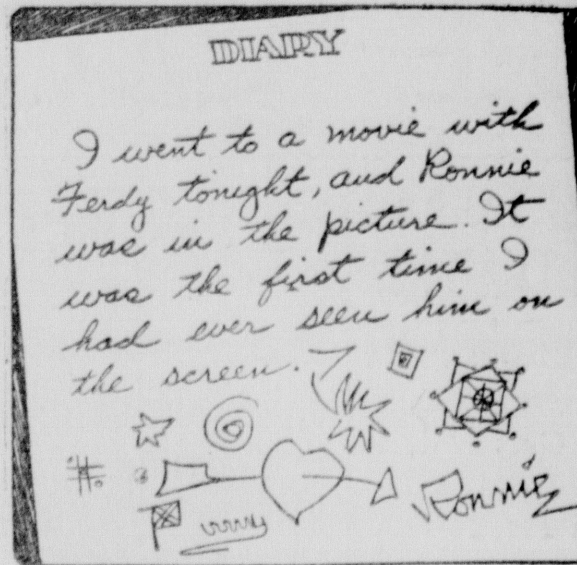

THE SAND OF THE DESERT IS NOT AN ANCIENT SEA DEPOSIT! IT IS FORMED RIGHT IN THE DESERT, BY HEAT, COLD AND WIND. CONSTANT CONTRACTION AND EXPANSION, DUE TO COLD NIGHTS AND HOT DAYS, BREAKS UP THE ROCKS... AND THE WIND GRINDS THEM INTO SAND.

THE MOON DOES NOT RISE EVERY DAY! THE LUNAR DAY IS LONGER THAN TWENTY-FOUR HOURS, THEREFORE, IF THE MOON RISES JUST BEFORE MIDNIGHT ON A TUESDAY, IT WILL NOT RISE AGAIN UNTIL EARLY THURSDAY MORNING!

Cedar rust is a parasite of the cedars, but due to its peculiar life cycle, it will die out unless there are trees of the apple family nearby, where its spores can alight and develop through each alternate year.

Rocks Have No Life. Stones and rocks have no life in them and do not grow, in the biological sense of the word, which requires the assimilation of new matter into a living organism. They may get larger by accretion, that is, through the addition of material from without. The belief of some persons that rocks grow in cultivated fields is due to the fact that freezing and thawing of the ground cause loose rocks to work up toward the surface.

Weight Reduced From 180 to 137. "Wonderful," She Says.

Here's to-day's story of a woman who knew she carried too much fat and decided the right way to get rid of it—just what she did.

"I use Kruschen Salts to reduce. It's wonderful. Take it daily and eat what I want and still lose. I did lose 120 now 137. Want to get down to 125?" Mrs. Leonard Bass, Ft. Atkinson, Wis., Feb. 6, 1934.

When you take one half tea-spoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water—you not only lose in weight but you put healthy activity into your whole body—you feel younger and look it—get it at Campbell's White Cross Drug Store or any drug store in the world.

BLAST IS FATAL TO 7 EXPLORERS IN OIL SECTOR

Cause of Blast in Oklahoma Field Monday Unexplained

Norman, Okla., June 5—(AP)—Exploding accidentally dynamite killed seven members of an engineering party who had expected to use it in seismograph explorations, for oil.

All were employees of the Petty Geophysics Engineering Company. They were working near two trucks on a road eight miles southeast of here yesterday when the blast occurred.

The victims, identified from the company rolls, were:

Vernon H. Weddel, 26, Chandler, single; Preston Barnes, 20, Guthrie, married; Lloyd B. Ford, 26, Norman, married; Dan McDonald, 22, San Antonio, Tex., single; David McClellan, 37, Santa Anna, married; Herman Voigt, 29, Perry, single and Joe Fannin 29, May, Texas, single.

Cause Unexplained. Officials investigating the accident were at a loss to explain its cause, although some attributed it possibly to static electricity, others to a collision between a magazine truck carrying dynamite and a water truck found at the scene.

Wendel Crawford, another member of the party, was making instrument observations while on a truck about 50 yards away from the blast.

"My vision was completely obstructed," Crawford said, explaining that there was a partition which separated him from the rest of the crew. "When I saw what had happened, I turned my truck toward Norman and reported to company headquarters and called ambulances."

"That is all that I can say," L. W. Lamar of Norman, upon whose land the explorations were being made, was one of the first persons to arrive after the explosion.

"It was a mass of human wreckage," he said.

Two nearby farm homes were damaged by the force of the shock, although none of the occupants was injured.

Grandmother Sleeping Girl Seriously Ill. Nursing Duties in Patricia Maguire's Home Have Increased.

Chicago, June 5—(AP)—The modest yellow home in suburban Oak Park where pretty Patricia Maguire has slept away nearly 28 months of her 29 years now has another patient.

Mrs. S. Issett, Patricia's grandmother, who is past 80 years old, has not been well recently. Mrs. Charles W. Hansen, Patricia's older sister, said today, as a result of infirmities of advancing years.

A semi-invalid and considered, Mrs. Hansen said, to be seriously ill, the grandmother's condition has augmented the constant day and night nursing the sister and her mother, Mrs. Peter Miley, have carried on since Patricia lapsed into unconsciousness in February, 1932.

Patricia has not only been holding her own in recent weeks, Mrs. Hansen said, but has shown a few additional minor signs that the family interpret as an improvement and a possible approach to consciousness.

After lying almost inert these many months, Patricia, her mother related, turned over in bed of her own accord last week.

Her case has puzzled medical science, and several forms of treatment, including blood transfusion and artificially stimulated fever, have been tried.

Plans to exhibit the children at

DONNA of the BIG TOP

by BEULAH POYNTER. ©1934 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY. DONNA GABRIEL, circus performer, falls from the trapeze and is injured. To please her partner, MADELINE SIDDAL, Donna goes to Madeline's home to recuperate. She is ashamed of this deception but keeps it up, even when BILL SIDDAL, Madeline's cousin, asks her to marry him. AMOS SIDDAL, Madeline's grandfather who owns the farm, is blind. MRS. PLANTER, housekeeper, is discharged by Donna, is her enemy. Donna and Bill are married. Madeline Madeline has married CON DAVID, circus animal trainer, and takes part in the animal act.

Amos Sidal has a stroke. In New Orleans Madeline goes into the cage with the Bengal tiger and is killed. Con is discharged. Unable to get work, he decides to go to the Sidal farm. From the nearby town he sends a note to Donna. She agrees to meet him the next afternoon.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. CHAPTER XXXV. MRS. PLANTER'S head was in a whirl. She had just uncovered the choicest bit of scandal it had ever been her luck to come across.

At first Mrs. Planter was uncertain just how to make use of her information. She had visions of following the guilty couple and telling Madeline what she thought of her. She soon dismissed this thought as too trivial a revenge for a terrible insult.

If she had been at liberty for the afternoon she could have spread the news to a few cronies who could be trusted to see that it would kindle and flame like a forest fire before 24 hours passed, becoming the chief subject of conversation at Lebanon dinner tables. But Mrs. Planter knew only too well that the person most concerned in the affair might never hear this scandal. Madeline might meet her lover over and over again and everyone in town be aware of it without Bill Sidal learning around with their boarder since last June? Everybody for miles around knew about it, but Doc Freeman's wife been traipsing around with their boarder since last June? Everybody for miles around knew about it, but Doc Freeman's wife been traipsing around with their boarder since last June?

Mrs. Planter recalled, with righteous pride, that when the sewing circle of the church had held a meeting to discuss the advisability of telling Doc Freeman he should keep a closer watch on his wife, she had voted against it. That she had voted thus because the minister's wife was opposed to meddling did not rob Mrs. Planter of feeling that she was a kindly, generous soul.

BUT no meeting to determine whether or not Bill should be kept in ignorance need be held. In the first place, neither Madeline nor Bill attended the same church as Mrs. Planter. In the second, Mrs. Planter intended to get the information to Bill in some manner—and with proof that could not be doubted.

To telephone him would be out of the question. She knew Bill's habits too well to believe he might be in the farmhouse to answer the phone himself. If his wife answered she would see to it that he did not get the message.

Studying over the problem, she went about preparations for the noon day meal. Janie Sabar, one of the chambermaids, assisted with the cooking—peeling potatoes, onions and carrots, opening cans of beans and peas, and slicing the bread.

Always at noon the Commercial House offered roast beef, roast pork and a choice of two kinds of pie, but on the day after Thanksgiving there was cold turkey and mince pie left, and Mrs. Planter's tasks were light.

She was no nearer the solution of her problem when Rader came into the kitchen to see if the meal were ready. "There's a crowd in there," he said. "Better fry up some steak, in case the turkey runs out. Got enough pie?"

"Yes." Clerks from the drug store, Blaney who was the lawyer and Dempster, the postmaster, besides some drummers who had arrived on an early train filed into the dining room. Mrs. Planter was busy dishing up food for Mabel's trays, and momentarily put Madeline and Bill Sidal out of her thoughts.

It was the waitress who brought them back again. "Hurry up, Miss Planter," she said. "Lem Holden's in there and he's anxious to get going on his delivery."

Lem Holden was the rural postman. He delivered mail to the Sidal farm. If Mrs. Planter wrote a letter to Bill and gave it to Lem, it would be delivered before Madeline went to meet Con David! Of course there was a chance the letter would fall into Madeline's hands, but she did not know Mrs. Planter's writing and the older woman knew also that Madeline never opened her husband's mail.

"Janie," Mrs. Planter mumbled, her voice thick with excitement, "dish up a minute, will you? I gotta go upstairs."

CONSIDERING her "rheumatics," she showed amazing agility as she sprinted up the stairs to the third floor room she occupied with Mabel. It was when she sat down to write that it occurred to her that, for her own safety, it would be better not to sign the letter. She would ask Mabel to give it to Lem. She had a good excuse, as she was not supposed to go into the dining room anyway. If questions concerning the letter arose later Mabel would be the one questioned. Mabel would be too stupid even to remember the incident after a day or so.

At best Mrs. Planter's handwriting was a scrawl. Now her hand shook so that the letters were all awry and blots of ink smudged the paper.

"Dear Mr. Sidal," she wrote. "As a friend I am writing this to you. Maybe you won't thank me now but some day you will. Your wife is a bad woman. If you want proof be at the Baptist church cemetery today, Friday 27, at three o'clock. She is going to meet an old sweetheart who used to travel with the circus. His name is Con David. He is stopping at the Commercial House now and came to Lebanon to see her—Your Well Wisher."

Mabel was plump, had a big appetite and an exceedingly sweet tooth. Whispering that she would save an extra piece of mince pie for her if she would give the letter to Lem, Mrs. Planter slipped the envelope into the waitress's hand. Then Mrs. Planter peeked through a crack in the swinging door and saw the envelope pass hands. Knowing that the stamp she had placed on it insured its arrival at its destination, she hummed "Savin' Grace" under her breath and continued to dish up the food with a zest that amazed her assistant.

It happened that Lem Holden had promised a friend to drive him into the country when he went on his delivery and that the friend delayed him almost 45 minutes. After that, being late already, Lem decided to wait until the 2:25 train arrived. Thus the letter that night or might not have brought Bill into Lebanon and to the cemetery was not delivered at the Sidal farm until after three o'clock.

DONNA had hung up the telephone receiver feeling utterly trapped. Slowly it was being forced upon her that Con David was not the man she had believed him to be, and that Grandfather's money was what had brought Con to Lebanon. There had been nothing of the lover in the tone of voice he had used, nothing that indicated a friendly desire to see her again.

Unquestionably he believed she wanted Grandfather Sidal's money and, just as surely, he would stop at nothing to circumvent any plot she fancied she might have on foot. Only the fear that he would come to the farm to demand an audience with Grandfather Sidal had made her promise to meet Con.

Once the promise had been given, she could not break it, much as she regretted it. Donna was torn between "the devil and the deep sea." Bill would not forgive a meeting with Con if he learned about it. Neither would he forgive her continued deception when she had had ample opportunity to confess.

Why hadn't she told him the whole story? Oh, why hadn't she told it all to him after their marriage? Bill would have overlooked a great deal then that he could not overlook now. Suppose he, too, should believe that money had played a vital part in the scheme! And her silence about the real Madeline's death seemed even worse.

One moment she was ready to run out to the barn where Bill was busy with some baby lambs and tell him everything, sparing neither herself nor the dead. The next moment she was determined at all costs to defend her happiness and, if necessary, to lie in the face of all evidence.

Some excuse to get into town must be invented. What could seem

FEDERAL FARM MORTGAGES IN COUNTY GIVEN

Total of $640,000 in Effect May 1 Reported Today

A total of $640,000 of Federal land bank and Land Bank Commissioner's farm mortgage loans was made in Lee county, from June 1, 1933, to May 1, 1934, according to the Farm Credit Administration. Of this total, farmers in Lee county used approximately $574,900, county used approximately $65,100 to refinance their indebtedness. By refinancing, the farmers obtained new mortgage loans which they used to repay their old debts. They generally reduced their annual interest charges in doing so. In a number of cases scale-downs of indebtedness occurred in connection with the new loans. These and other advantages benefited farmers primarily. Secondly, creditors benefited from the receipt of cash or bonds in exchange for obligations they held.

Of the loan money used by farmers in Lee county for refinancing their debts, about $288,400, it was estimated, repaid their debts to insurance companies; $3,200, their taxes; $1,300, their debts to merchants; $171,100, their debts to "others," or creditors not separately classified, including private mortgage lenders, mortgage loan companies, retired farmers and many others to whom farmers were in debt.

A total of about $68,000 of loans in the county was used for purposes other than the refinancing of borrowers' debts. Of this sum, $37,200 was used for the purchase of land and equipment, the construction or improvement of buildings, and for general agricultural uses, including the provision of capital, while $28,200, the balance, was used for the purchase of stock in national farm loan associations, for loan fees, etc.

Throughout the United States approximately $75,000,000 of land bank and Commissioner's loans were made from June 1, 1933, to May 1, 1934. Most of these loans were made to refinance debts resulting from the long period of low farm income.

Generally farmers pay considerably less interest each year on the new than on the old loans. Land bank loans made through national farm loan associations carry an interest rate of 5 per cent, but there is a reduction to 4 1/2 per cent until July, 1934. Loans made direct by banks carry a rate of 5 1/2 per cent, but there is a reduction to 5 per cent until 1938. The rate on Commissioner's loans is 5 per cent. Against these rates farmers in most cases had been paying from 8 per cent to 10 per cent, and even above 10 per cent.

Until March 28 the land bank and Commissioner's loans were made in cash. Commencing on that date they were made mainly in the government-guaranteed bonds of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation. These bonds are exempt from all Federal, state, municipal and local taxation, except surtaxes, estate, inheritance and gift taxes. They are guaranteed fully as to principal and interest by the United States government. In a relatively short period after they were issued, they sold above par and had met a favorable reception from farmers and their creditors all over the United States. With the use of these bonds, the refinancing program is going forward rapidly.

W. F. PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

Temperatures ranging from 95 to 105; almost no moisture; feed scarce; and the market poor—certainly conditions have seldom combined against the poultry raiser to such an extent.

All that can be expected under such circumstances is that you do the best you can.

You realize, of course, that, when the thermometer stands at 95 or above, if you wait until evening, to gather the eggs, they will have lost their freshness before you get them out of the nest.

They should be gathered two or three times a day and kept in the coolest place you have on the farm. If you keep a tub of water standing near the eggs or hang up burlap sacks that have been dipped in water, the air won't draw so much of the moisture out of the eggs.

But even with the best care, you can't hope to keep them fresh on the farm for more than two or three days.

They should be marketed two—or even three—times a week in this kind of weather. Otherwise they will be wilted—just as flowers and fruit and vegetables would be wilted.

Provide Plenty of Cool Water

Another thing: It is important to keep your chickens comfortable. Don't pack them into a hot chicken house. See that they have enough room and plenty of air.

You may need to separate the cockerels from the pullets and move them out to range shelters. They need plenty of cool water, too. This is particularly true of the hens because eggs are two-thirds water and they need lots of it to lay well. If it is cool, they will drink more.

Resolutions Won't Change The Weather

As I say, the only thing we can do is make the best of a bad situation.

It rather seems that nature is controlling production more effectively than legislation could.

Two or three years after the war a committee was set up to consider forming a national grain corporation to handle all grains produced in this country, the idea being to put agriculture on a commercial basis.

My friend, G. Harold Powell, who was head of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, was offered the position as head of the new organization.

In discussing it he said, "I contend that you cannot carry on the production of food like a manufacturing proposition due to the uncertainty of the weather and of market conditions when it is produced. When anyone makes farming his life work he must consider them as a commercial risks."

He ended by saying, "I appreciate the honor of being considered for this position, but, gentlemen, I say in all sincerity that you cannot change the laws of God or of economics by any resolution of man. I must decline your offer."

Often during the last few months, I have thought of that remark: "Gentlemen, you cannot change the laws of God or of economics by any resolution of man."

Sincerely yours,

W. F. Priebe,

The name amphibian, under which such vertebrates as frogs, toads, salamanders and newts are classified, means "double life." Its application to these creatures is due to the fact that they spend part of their life in the water and part on land.

FARMERS SPEND 10 PCT MORE ON THEIR CLOTHES

Disclosure Made In Survey of Home Account Books

Urbana, Ill., June 5.—Illinois farm families spent approximately 10 per cent more for clothing during the past year than they did in 1932, according to a summary of 167 home account records made by Mrs. Ruth C. Freeman, home economics extension specialist at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Although the average clothing cost of $101 for each family during 1933 was not particularly large, the increase of $10 a family becomes more significant when it is realized that the total of all expenses and savings for the year was only 5 1/2 per cent larger than in 1932. Furthermore, the clothing costs accounted for 15 per cent of all cash family expenditures.

The husband's clothing bill in the average farm family amounted to approximately $25, while that of his wife totaled about $32 for the year. The clothing costs of the younger members of the farm families varied with their respective ages. Boys and girls of high school age required an average of about $21 each, those ranging from 6 to 13 years had clothing costs of around $18, and children from one to five years were clothed with cash expenditures approximating $12 each.

From one-fifth to one-third of each person's clothing money was spent for shoes and hose, the boys and girls of grade school age need.

ing the largest proportion, the records reveal.

The largest class of items in the women's clothing bills was dresses, accounting for 36 per cent of the total. The shoe costs ranked second, or about 18 per cent of the total clothing expense of the home-makers. Other items were coats 14 per cent, undergarments 11 per cent, hats and caps 8 per cent each, and gloves, shoe repairs and other accessories 5 per cent.

Of the men's clothing costs, shoes accounted for 18 1/2 per cent, work clothes 16 per cent, suits 16 1/2 per cent, shirts 11 per cent, coats 10 per cent, undergarments 8 per cent, hats and caps 5 per cent, hose and gloves 3 per cent each, and shoe repairs and miscellaneous items 8 per cent.

There seems to be a tendency for the wife to purchase about two-thirds of her dresses ready-made, points out Mrs. Freeman, while for grade-school girls and older, the tendency seems to be to buy the material and make the dresses at home.

CANNIBALISM IN CHICKENS NOW COMMON

Toe, Feather Picking are Also Usual Among Young Chicks

By H. D. MUNROE
(Formerly Professor Poultry Extension Penn. State College)

Toe picking, feather picking and cannibalism in chicks are getting to be common complaints among poultry raisers. These bad habits are undoubtedly due to the extreme artificial methods used in raising chicks. Most hen flocks that pick feathers learned this habit when they were chicks. Many of us are inclined to blame the feed when chicks start picking. We forget that when chicks were raised with hens and were fed nothing but corn meal we never heard of feather picking. Certainly any method of feeding chicks today has more variety and balance than our old methods of feeding chicks. We have seen feather picking in flocks fed nearly every kind of a mixture.

The principal causes of picking in chicks are—crowding, overheating, the lack of green roughage feed and wire floors.

Crowding not only causes picking but probably the most common condition that develops Coccidiosis. Crowded conditions cause most of our troubles in rearing chicks. One easy method of helping crowded conditions is to separate the cockerels from the pullets as soon as they can be distinguished. Crowded conditions in the brooder house is the reason many flocks start toe picking and feather picking.

More late hatched chicks than usual are going to be raised this year. During warm spring and early summer days many of these chicks are going to be over-heated. Chicks that are too hot, especially on summer days, will start picking. During warm weather the brooder temperature should not be over 90 degrees the first week and then lowered 5 degrees each week until 70 degrees is reached. In other words, harden or toughen the late hatched chicks rapidly. Too high temperature in the brooder house is causing a lot of trouble.

Roughage feed and wire floors as a cause of picking go hand in hand. During the last few years green feed for chicks has been neglected. One reason for this is the fact that alfalfa has been used in most chick mash. The amount of alfalfa used in mashes is not enough to satisfy the roughage demands for the growing chick. Green feed should be supplied to chicks until they go on range. If the roughage requirement of the chick is satisfied there will be no picking.

NACHUSA MAN CELEBRATING ANNIVERSARY

C. C. Parker Has Real Party on His Ninetieth Birthday

Christopher C. Parker, pioneer resident of Nachusa township, for many years has yearned for a typical birthday celebration and today, the anniversary of his ninetieth birthday, his long wish is being realized. His six daughters are assembled at his home today with many other more distant relatives and hosts of friends, assisting him in the celebration of this memorable event.

Spry and alert and with a keen mind, Mr. Parker is thoroughly enjoying every minute of today with his family and old cronies. He was born in Grant county, Indiana, June 5, 1844. He was married in 1863 and six years later came west settling in Nachusa in 1869 where he has continued to make his home. Announcement of his birthday was made today over the Cherrito hour of the National Broadcasting Company, in addition to the celebration at Nachusa. His six daughters, Mrs. Melissa A. Herick of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. T. W. Brown of Franklin Grove, Mrs. W. F. Weeden of Chicago, Mrs. J. M. Speed of New Orleans, La., Mrs. O. R. Eicholtz and Mrs. J. Fred Johnson of Nachusa are the living children of a family of 11, ten daughters and one son, the others together with his wife, having preceded him in death. Mrs. Parker passed on in March, 1932. Since that time he has made his home with his two daughters in Nachusa.

Was Railroad Builder

Mr. Parker is one of the few surviving early railroad builders. He was employed in the building of a branch of the Great Northern at Savanna and in 1870, entered the employ of the Chicago & North-Western as a section hand. He became section foreman and continued in the employ of the company until 1900, when he retired.

Last summer, Mr. Parker attended the Century of Progress in Chicago and he cites as one of the most interesting things that he witnessed the old North-Western wood burning locomotive in the Travel and Transport exhibit, with its bright brass bands. He was not content until he had experienced the thrill of riding on the Sky Ride and he entertains fond hopes of visiting the Century of Progress again this summer.

Despite his 90 years of age, Mr. Parker is most active as is evidenced by the fact that last fall he went into a corn field and husked seven bushels of corn alone. He is spry and agile and during today's celebration, he plans to dance a jig to the music of a Hawaiian band. He is in excellent health and when asked how he felt on the eve of his ninetieth birthday, he said:

Followed Scriptures

"For the past five years, I have been afflicted with stomach trouble. I obeyed that section of the Scriptures which says: 'take a little wine for thy stomach's sake and other infirmities.' I also chew tobacco and smoke my pipe."

Two huge birthday cakes, one of which was prepared by a Detroit baker, will grace the table at noon today. Each will be decorated with nine large candles, each of which will represent ten years of his life time. At his own request and by his arrangement, all of the guests will be required to sign a register

Traveling Around America

SHIPS BECOME BEACH-MINDED

NOW that sun-bathing has become the smart pastime, a ship to be chic must have a beach—or even two, or three. These beaches with their umbrella-topped tables, brightly colored beach cushions and spacious tiled swimming pools are one of the most attractive features of modern liners—particularly when they are the setting for such a gay scene as this one photographed on the new Grace Lineer Santa Elena.

Seagull swimming pools and "Lido" beaches are growing bigger and better as each new ship makes her bow. Those of this ship and her three sisters—which made their debut last year—are beautiful examples of the latest vogue.

The pool, unusually large and built of sea-green tile is fed with a constant flow of salt water from the ocean and has fresh water showers conveniently near. At night it is illuminated with overhead lights and underwater flood lights. The surrounding deck is dressed up in the smartest of beach paraphernalia—complete even to radio loudspeaker. On this beach the sunbathers play cards, listen-in on radio programs, enjoy lunch and cool drinks served on parasol-shaded tables—spending the entire day, if they wish, basking in the sunshine in comfortable beach attire.

which he has prepared for the occasion. Open house and a general reception will be held from 2 o'clock this afternoon until 10 o'clock this evening.

"Father has always wanted a real birthday party and we have decided to let him have it this year," his daughters stated.

Thirty-Fifth State

Kanawha was suggested as a name for the new state which finally succeeded from Virginia in 1863. The constitution of the new state was formed and ratified in April, 1862. The name West Virginia was finally adopted. It was admitted as the thirty-fifth state of the Union on June 20, 1863, in accordance with the proclamation of President Lincoln.

Elephant's Trunk Necessary

The elephant would have a hard time getting a drink of water if it weren't provided with a trunk, because its tusks would prevent the animal from getting close enough to the water in a pond to drink in the manner of most animals. Instead it sucks the water up into its trunk, which, in turn, sprays the liquid into its owner's mouth.

That's what Jimmy Durante said when he found that the leaning tower, now under construction in the Italian village of the new World's Fair which opens in Chicago May 26, was leaning away from his famous "schnozzle."
